

Here are our newest additions to our book club sets!

Jane Steele by Lyndsay Faye

Suffering at the hands of cruel family members and brutal school administrators, sensitive orphan Jane Steele murderously retaliates against her abusers and takes a job as a governess working with mysterious servants while falling in love with her employer, in a serial-killer reimagining of Jane Eyre.

Take a look at the Book Club Kit from Penguin Random House, which includes a couple of recipes and book discussion questions.

<https://randomhouse.app.box.com/s/wipom5zbpw45qwjoqoe2y45hf5gr6j6h>

This witty historical suspense novel could be a readalike for Deanna Raybourn's Veronica Speedwell series and The Crimes of Charlotte Bronte by James Tully for the parallels between Jane Eyre and Jane Steele.

The Zookeeper's Wife by Diane Ackerman (NF)

The true story of Warsaw Zookeepers and resistance activists Jan and Antonina Zabinski, who in the aftermath of Germany's invasion of Poland, saved the lives of hundreds of Jewish citizens by smuggling them into empty cages and their home villa. Nonfiction.

Below is a link to the author bio and discussion questions.

<http://www.litlovers.com/reading-guides/14-non-fiction/1197-zookeepers-wife-ackerman?showall=1>

This inspiring and hopeful story will appeal to fans of Erik Larson's In the Garden of Beasts and Israel Gutman's Resistance which offer non-military World War II stories and insights into the life and times of people, period, and place.

The Giant's House by Elizabeth McCracken

Befriending an adolescent boy who is ostracized for his unusual height, bereft Cape Cod librarian Peggy Cort finds a soulmate in James and comes to love him as he grows into a man of eight feet.

Here's a link to a reader's guide and more about Elizabeth McCracken from Penguin Random House. Take a look!

<http://www.penguinrandomhouse.com/books/110879/the-giants-house-by-elizabeth-mccracken/9780385340892/readers-guide/>

This sweet and quirky character driven novel would appeal to fans of The Dollhouse by Fiona Davis and The Borrower by Rebecca Makkai.